WILSON VETOES TWO MEASURES

President Refuses to Sign Agriculture Bill Because of Clause Repealing Daylight Law

VETOES SUNDRY CIVIL BILL

Says it Contains Items Likely to be of Most Serious Consequence —To Be Considered Monday

(By United Press.)
Washington, July 12.—President Wilson today vetoed the agriculture bill because of the clause providing for repeal of the day light saving law.

The president also returned to the house without signing it the sundry civil appropriation bill because he said it contained items "likely to be of the most serious consequences."

"I realize, of course, the great inconvenience which may arise from postponement of this legislation at this time," the president said in notifying the house of his rejection.

"But I feel to withhold my signature because of the clause which provides that 'on and after two o'clock auto-Meridian on Sunday October 26, 1919 next, the act to save daylight and to provide standard time for the United States be and the same is hereby repealed.'"

"I believe that repeal of the act referred to would be of extremely grave inconvenience to the country and I feel justified in saying that it would constitute something more than inconvenience. It would involve severe economical loss."

Immediately upon reading of the president's message announcing his veto of the agriculture appropriation bill, the house voted 225 to 77 to consider the veto next Monday, on motion of Republican Leader Mondell.

The announcement of the veto was greeted by applause by some republicans who voted against the repeal of the daylight saving law.

The house then withheld vote on the president's veto of the sundry civil appropriation bill which carried funds for all government departments, referring it to the appropriation committee.

LOSES LEFT HAND IN BAD ACCIDENT

Walter L. Niles, I. & C. Motorman, Suffers Severe Injury While Working on Gravel Train

HAND AMPUTATED AT WRIST

Walter L. Niles, 835 North Jackson street, a motorman on the I. & C. traction line, met with a painful injury late yesterday afternoon, when his left hand became entangled in some machinery about a dump car, badly mashing it and making amputation at the wrist necessary.

Mr. Niles was a motorman on the gravel train and was working near Five Points, on the Shelbyville division. The exact details of the accident are not known here. He was taken to the Deaconess Hospital in Indianapolis, and at first it was thought that the accident was not serious, but after an examination it was found necessary to remove the entire left hand, at the wrist.

Mrs. Niles was notified shortly after the accident, and the traction company told her that she could go to Indianapolis if she wished, as it was not thought serious. She was at the Hospital, however, in time to be advised about the seriousness of the accident. Mr. Niles was reported this afternoon, as getting along nicely and will recover.

R-34 Is 850 Miles Out From British Coast This Morning

(By United Press.)
London, July 12.—The British dirigible R-34 was 850 miles out at 7:00 a. m., New York time, the air ministry announced this morning. Owing to a storm over Scotland, the air ministry sent a wireless to the R-34 informing them to land at Pulham, Norfolk, about 100 miles northeast of London, instead of at East Fortune. The ship is scheduled to reach Pulham 4 a. m., New York time, tomorrow morning. The R-34 reported a reduction in speed owing to a disabled engine.

MAY TRY TO PREVENT WILSON GOING ON TOUR

League Opponents Plan Resolution to Summons President Before Committee Daily

CAN RENDER MORE SERVICE

(By United Press.)
Washington, July 12.—An attempt to prevent President Wilson from making a cross-country tour in behalf of the league of nations by keeping him in daily touch with the meeting of the senate foreign relation committee, is being discussed today by league opponents in congress.

Senator Moses, New Hampshire, a new republican member of the committee, said today he plans to offer a resolution to the senate Monday, inviting President Wilson to attend the sessions of that body beginning at 10 a. m. each day while the peace treaty is being discussed.

"I think the president could more effectively serve his country in this way than by making stump speeches throughout the nation," said Moses.

President Wilson already has expressed a willingness to give any information on the peace treaty to the committee.

It was persistently reported that President Wilson decided to ask Senator Swanson, Virginia, to handle the fight for the league in the senate, displacing Senator Hitchcock, who has been the administration spokesman.

FOR MANUFACTURERS TO FIX RETAIL PRICES

Legislation With This End in View Urged Upon Congress by Federal Trade Commission

SCHEDULE WOULD BE FILED

(By United Press.)
Washington, July 12.—In a special report to congress, the federal trade commission today urged passage of legislation permitting manufacturers to fix and maintain retail prices.

Such a legislation, the commission stated, would promote the efficiency of manufacturing and commercial institutions and center interest on the consuming public.

Under the legislation recommended by the commission, manufacturers designated to fix and maintain resale prices, would file a schedule with agents to be designated by congress, describing all articles on sale and the price schedule to be maintained.

FOUR SOLDIERS KILLED

Alexandria, July 12.—Two officers and two enlisted men were killed and twelve soldiers injured today when an auto truck crashed into the rail of a bridge over Hunting Creek, south of here, and plunged into the water.

IS CERTAIN ONE OF FORDS IS GARTIN'S

Engine Number on One of Cars in Possession of 3 Jeffrey Brothers Evidently Changed.

LICENSE PLATE STOLEN HERE

Effort Will be Made to Apprehend Jeffrey Brothers in Tennessee Once More

The letters which Sheriff Luke McMenaway of Lebanon, Tenn., wrote to Chief Seward, regarding the three Jeffrey brothers, was received late yesterday afternoon, and said that the three brothers, Milton, George and Elmer were arrested on suspicion, as they did not seem to have the appearance of owning automobiles. The arrest was made at Watertown, a few miles from the county seat of Lebanon.

According to the letter, the telegram which Chief Seward sent in reply to the announcement of their arrest, was delayed, and for lack of evidence the officials allowed them to go.

The engine numbers had been tampered with and it is certain that one of the Fords belong to John Gartin as the figures 1 had been changed to 4's. The license plate carried on this machine happened to be those which were taken from the Bill Young machine a few weeks ago. The other Ford however does probably not belong here, as the engine number was too far wrong, and could not have been changed by the Jeffreys. The license plate on this machine was 23757 and an effort is being made to find the owner of these numbers.

The letter also stated that these could in all probability be caught, as they intended to go to Greenville, Tenn., and Chief Seward has wired this placed to be on the look out for them and arrest them. The sheriff at Lebanon will also assist in their capture.

The police are sure that both cars were stolen by them, and by having Bill Young's license number, makes the evidence more complete. Two of the Jeffrey brothers were in service, and had their discharge papers with them which disclosed their identity.

CHANGE MATERIAL TO BE USED ON HIGHWAY

Commissioners Find it is Impossible to Get Glutrin and Gravel May be Substituted

FOR THE T. L. BEHER ROAD

The county commissioners were in session this afternoon, the main purpose being to see about the changing of the material to be used in the construction of the T. L. Beher road. The contract was let some time ago to the Ohio Construction Company and subletted to Charles E. Reddington, and was to have been made a waterbound rock surface road. Now the contractors are unable to buy the glutrin which binds the crushed rock, and are asking for the specifications to be changed.

In all probability the commissioners will change the material from rock to gravel, and have the road put through as soon as possible.

SEVERAL KILLED IN FIRE

Philadelphia, July 12.—Several firemen were believed to have lost their lives and many injured during a fire which swept the big warehouse of Pottash Brothers, hurlap manufactures, here today. Several spectators were also thought to have been killed.

RUSHVILLE MEN PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Bonds For Chester Taylor and Sylvia Miller Are Fixed at $1,500 Each at Shelbyville

PLEA SURPRISES OFFICIALS

Previously Admit Taking Corn and Direct Police to Scene of Theft —Wanted at Greenfield

Chester Taylor and Sylvia Miller, the two Rushville men held at Shelbyville on a grand larceny charge in connection with the theft of 1150 pounds of corn which they attempted to sell at an elevator in Shelbyville, were arraigned yesterday before Judge Blair, and to the surprise of the officials both men entered a plea of not guilty. They previously had admitted taking the corn, and even directed the police to the bin from which the corn had been taken. The trial of the two men has been set for next Friday, July 18.

The two men were taken back to their cells in the jail, after Judge Blair had placed their bonds at $1,500 each. It was said that they were making an attempt to secure bond, through several of their Rushville friends. Taylor stated that he had employed Donald Smith of this city to defend him, but Mr. Smith was not present yesterday in the court room.

Shelbyville police yesterday received a communication from Mayor Myers of Greenfield, stating that the city of Greenfield had been on the outlook for Taylor and according to information given by the mayor of Greenfield, Taylor is the same man whom the authorities of Greenfield have wanted for some time on a "bootlegging" charge. There are no charges against Taylor in the Hancock county court, but the mayor of Greenfield stated that there is positive evidence that Taylor is the man wanted there.

Mayor Myers of Greenfield was in communication with Mayor Hoop of Shelbyville and stated that for some time the police of that city have been on the lookout for Taylor, who is believed to have furnished liquor to a barber in Greenfield, who has been operating a "blind tiger." This is substantiated by Taylor's own admission that while prices of whiskey were low in Ohio he bought a large supply and later sold it to an Indianapolis man. Taylor, however, denies any connection with sending liquor to Greenfield.

The police at Shelbyville are certain that in the arrest of Taylor and Miller they have made a splendid catch.

Further light on the Greenfield case was given, when yesterday morning, Dr. C. P. Wilson, a veterinary of that city, drove his automobile into Shelbyville at a high rate of speed, with muffler open, and himself in an intoxicated condition. His condition made him talk and when being arraigned before the mayor of Shelbyville, he told some very interesting things about "bootlegging" in his home town.

LOREN MARTIN IS APPOINTED CLERK

Loren Martin, a young farmer living a short distance southwest of Rushville, was appointed clerk of the court by the county commissioners shortly after three o'clock this afternoon, to take the place of George B. Moore, Jr., who has resigned and will quit the office August 1. Martin is unmarried and lives with his mother, Mrs. R. E. Martin. His father died last winter.

The bond issue of $20,160 to pay for the construction of the Jacob D. Todd gravel road in Center township has been approved by the state board of tax commissioners and work on the road will be started in a few days, it is expected. The contract has already been let to Charles E. Reddington of Greensburg. It was arranged some time ago for the persons interested in seeing the highway built, to buy the bonds providing the state commission sanctioned the issue, so that there will be no delay on that score.

GERMANY INFORMED LID WILL BE LIFTED

Big Five Sends Note Informing Her Ratification of the Treaty Has Been Accepted

WARSHIPS SENT TO FIUME

(By United Press.)
Paris, July 12.—The council of five began issuing instruction today on the cessations of the blockade against Germany.

A note was forwarded to the Germans, informing them that their ratification of the treaty has been accepted and that the individual allied governments would take steps to lift the blockade.

The council also started consideration of lifting the blockade against Russia.

Italy filed a claim today, asking that she be granted Austrian concessions in Pientsin, China, the peace treaty now providing that the concessions revert to China for international use.

Dispatch of British, French and American warships to Fiume was a surprise, though apparently such a course was decided upon at least two days ago. It was hoped that the presence of these vessels would help to stabilize the situation but the Italians considered their dispatch was wholly a French move.

SIGNS INDIAN BILL

Washington, July 12.—President Wilson today affixed his signature to the Indian appropriation measure, it was reported.

13 OFFENDERS UP BEFORE THE MAYOR

Violators of Auto Tail Light Law Are Warned They Will be Fined on Second Offense

GIVE VARIETY OF EXCUSES

Mayor Explains City Administration is Not Responsible For Law —To Protect Motorists

"Keep the tail lights burning, For there's a cop that's yearning, Trim the wicks and light the lights 'Till the car is home."

Such was the advice given this morning by Mayor Irvin to the thirteen offenders who were cited last night by the police, to appear before him this morning. All of the persons were found violating the state law, pertaining to tail lights.

Last night was the first time that the law was to be enforced, following a ten-days-of-grace period, in which people were reminded through the press that the law would be enforced. It being the first appearance of the thirteen, the mayor did not fine them, but told them to watch their lights and avoid a second offense.

Of the offenders, all gave their reasons why the light was not burning. Mrs. Herman Tompkins explained that "she went into the picture show in the daylight, and came out in the dark," and Frank C. George stated that he drove out home, intending to stay but a moment, but lay down for a while and fell asleep, awaking after dark. Mr. George was also cited as having his car parked on the wrong side of the street, but was not fined this time.

The thirteen who were caught without proper lights were Wilbur Gray, Walter Reinmeiner, Mrs. Herman Tompkins, Cullen Sexton, James Stiers, Mervin Alexander, Harry Ferather, Frank C. George, L. J. Newhouse of near Clarksburg, Milton Gray, Cecil Major of Milroy and the owners of two other machines who had not appeared yet. All thirteen did not appear, but in some cases a hearing will be given them as soon as possible.

Mayor Irvin, in telling the offenders this morning about the law, stated that the city administration was

YOUNG WIFE SENT TO GOOD SHEPHERDS HOME

Mrs. George Price Will be Taken to Indianapolis Monday—Taylor Held on New Charge

GAVE LIQUOR TO HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Thersa Price, fifteen-years-old wife of George Price, who was arrested a few days ago when she attempted to run away with Alpheus Taylor, age fifty years, was sent to the Good Shepherds home in Indianapolis for an indeterminate period, by Judge Sparks today. She will be taken Monday by Sheriff Jones. The young wife told the court that she would not be sixteen years old until December and that she was married when thirteen years of age.

Taylor, who faces a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, has also been charged with giving liquor to Price in violation of the state prohibition law. His bond is $1,000 in each case and he probably will not be tried before the first week in August when a week's vacation court will be held. Taylor is the father of Chester Taylor who is held at Shelbyville on charge of grand larceny in connection with the theft of 1150 pounds of corn.

INVESTING MADE SAFE FOR THE SMALL SAVER

War Savings Stamps Minimizing the Menace of Fraudulent Promotions Which Wipe Out "Rainy Day Funds."

This is the day of the small investor. The war opened the eyes of some 50,000,000 Americans to the benefits of investing in government securities; it minimized to the same extent the menace of fraudulent promotions in which many lives savings have been sunk. War Savings stamps are making investing safe for the small saver.

"There is nothing more disheartening than to undergo self-denial for years, to save money and then to see the 'rainy day fund' wiped out by the failure of some 'wildcat' scheme," says Robert E. Springsteen, director of the War Savings Organization for Indiana.

"Widows and hard-working men are credulous. They listen to the oily promises of 'get-rich-quick' promoters and hand over their savings to salesmen promising impossible profits."

"When the crash comes the savings of years disappear in an instant and there is nothing to do but begin life over again—often at a time when earning capacity has begun to ebb."

Whatever the temptation for "wildcat" speculation in the past, there is no excuse for it now.

Every small investor should realize that a dollar saved while money is the cheapest commodity being offered will purchase twice as much of most any other commodity within four or five years, so that, in addition to the interest that War Savings or other government securities yield, the investor really has earned 100 per cent in the purchasing power of the dollar saved.

Small sums certainly are worth saving. Amounts that seem insignificant soon pile up into figures that are impressive.

A great French banker was once asked the secret of French thrift, and he replied, "Compound interest." Just as constant waste, even in little things, may change one's life from success to failure, so the steady saving of money will eventually bring independence, if not actual wealth.

There are very few persons who cannot, without any inconvenience whatever, lay aside 10 cents a day. Within ten years one's daily savings of this insignificant sum will amount to $365, in addition to $80.36 compound interest, making a total of $445.36 to show for one's saving just 10 cents a day for ten years.

By saving 15 cents a day for ten years, with interest compounded at 4 per cent, one will have the comfortable sum of $638.18; 20 cents a day will net $800.90. Save 50 cents a day for ten years and there is $2,227.75. A dollar a day will make a total of $4,455.74 for the ten-year period.

All these figures are based on the savings being put out at 4 per cent compound interest. War Savings stamps yield a trifle more than 4 per cent.

Mrs. P. S. Boehm, who was operated on last Monday night in Comersville for appendicitis, is getting along very well, and her condition is encouraging to the physicians.

ROMANCE OF A WEEK ENDS ABRUPTLY TODAY

Bettie Hodgen Unable to Answer Questions and Clerk Refuses to Grant License

MAN HERE WITH A TENT SHOW

A romance of a week's duration ended rather abruptly this afternoon in the county clerk's office, when Bettie Hodgen and Thomas Johnson were refused a license to wed.

Johnson came to the city Monday with a show which is located on the old ball diamonds, and Miss Hodgen fell in love at the first sight. Both of the parties are colored.

When applying for a license this afternoon, the girl was unable to answer the questions, and could not answer to her age, occupation, place of birth or race—so County Clerk Moore refused them a license.

MAYOR REGAINS NUMBERS

Auto License Plates are Found in Barn on Dell Miles Farm

Somebody got the mayor's number a few weeks ago, but he recovered it—or them, to be strictly correct. It was a dark secret about the recovery of Mayor Irvin's automobile license plates until the story eventually leaked out that they were found in a barn on Dell Miles' farm near Raleigh. The loss of the license plates was discovered a few days after the mayor had attended a barn dance on the Miles farm and it is regarded as likely that someone took them while Mr. Irvin was there. The mayor got a permit to run his car until duplicate plates could be made, but the old ones were recovered before the new ones came.

Ernest Stuckey, of Falmouth, was injured Thursday when a motorcycle which he was riding, skidded and turned turtle. Mr. Stuckey was driving on the road east of Falmouth and attempted to pass a car, when the accident happened. He was thrown against a fence and suffered a broken collar bone, a fractured right arm and several deep bruises. His condition today was somewhat improved.

The matter, however, would have escaped the attention of the authorities had it not been for two officers of the government department of justice who heard him in his remarks, and while he was paying his fine for automobile violations, he told the officers about his friend in Greenfield from whom he could get all the liquor he wanted. Dr. Wilson's fine amounted to $11 and costs for intoxication and $20 and costs for violating the muffler ordinance, and the charge of speeding was discharged.

PROHIBITION TO BRING COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE

Hazel MacKaye Advises Using Buildings as Centers for Drama, Community Sings and Entertainments.

Why not turn the corner saloon into a community playhouse when the law effects the closing of these gathering places, asks Miss Hazel MacKaye, director of the Department of Pageantry and Drama of the National Young Women's Christian Association?

"I went over on the West Side of New York one night recently to attend a community drama meeting," Miss MacKaye says in explaining her theory, "and as I was riding along I noticed how many saloons there were—one on every corner and another in the middle of the block, it seemed, all just blazing with lights. Those lights ought not to go out with prohibition. They ought to shine for something worth while to all of the people, and what better than community drama and sings?"

Miss MacKaye feels that the war has given a great impetus to popular interest in drama and that through pageantry and drama a great deal in the way of Americanization can be effected.

Through the community center, if it be in a district populated largely of one foreign nationality, these people could present pageants of the life in their mother countries, translating them into English, so that Americans and also the younger English speaking members of their household could understand and appreciate their traditions. American art would be greatly enriched thus through the drama of all of the nations whose peoples have settled in this country. On the other hand American ideals, American history and American festivals, even laws such as child labor and minimum wage, could be interpreted to these people by means of pageantry.

"People have been learning not only to work together, but to play together," Miss MacKaye says, "particularly since the war, when the people stood together in drives and large patriotic community entertainments. The opportunity to build up a great community organization is now at hand, and the time is ripe for it. Why not utilize the corner saloon?"

DEPARTMENT ADVISES ON PLUMBING AND CURTAINS

New Bureau Opens in Y. W. C. A. Overseas Office.

A new department of finance has been organized by the Y. W. C. A. for its work in France. Miss Constance Clark of Pasadena, Cal., is the executive. Miss Clark before her recent coming to France was director of the big Y. W. C. A. Hostess House at Camp Lewis, Washington.

All contracts, leases and rentals for new buildings will be handled by Miss Edith Austin of New York City, an experienced architect and builder, who will work through this newly created section.

Plans for remodeling and decorating rooms, clubs and hostess houses taken over by the Y. W. C. A. will be in the hands of Miss Mary Buchanan, an interior decorator, who comes originally from Scotland, but who has been working in France for the American Y. W. C. A. since the beginning of its war work there.

In addition, the department is compiling lists, suggestions and general shopping guides for all the buying of the Association in France, including all kinds of building equipment from cretonne curtains to plumbing supplies.

A cafeteria expert will have a place in the department to act as general advisor on restaurant and cafeteria projects of the Association throughout France.

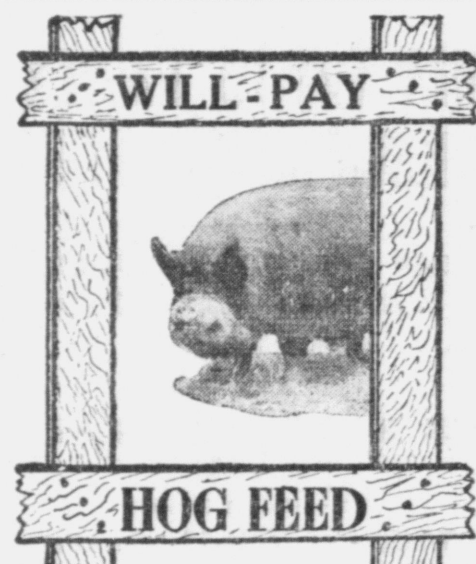

In short, the department is to be more than finance alone. It is to be a kind of general advisory department and clearing house for all other departments in the French association—a department where dollars will be measured up against deeds and needs.

ALPINE YODLERS UNIQUE COMPANY

Natives of Switzerland, Who Are Coming to Chautauqua, Are Distinctly Different Attraction

TWO CONCERTS ON AUGUST 14

Program is Made up of Great Variety of Music, Including Solos, Duets, Trios, Quartets

Probably the most unique attraction ever at the Rush county chautauqua will be here this year when the Alpine Singers and Yodlers appear at the assembly in two concerts Thursday afternoon and evening, August 14.

Mrs. Otto Feichtel's Alpine Singers who will be in Rushville, are the original company of Alpine yodlers to appear in this country. Mrs. Feichtel and her husband coming to America from Switzerland in 1896, and organizing this company immediately thereafter, since which time the organization has been in constant demand. The organization has had the honor to appear before three American presidents, Cleveland, McKinley and Roosevelt. The program offered for this year consists of solos, duets, trios, quartets and quintets, accompanied by that unique instrument so popular in Switzerland, the zither, folk songs of the Alpine people, including the famous yodels, will be interspersed with modern popular numbers, making up a delightful variety.

The Yodel is a unique musical expression. It has been asked by people what Yodlers are. They are natives of Switzerland who live a simple shepherd life and who have achieved complete mastery of the music of their country as well as the full development of the peculiar Yodel. The main feature of this entertainment is the Echo song which is carried from crag to crag on the wings of the atmosphere. The call floats and re-echoes down the canyon, tempered by distance, and on down until the sweetest melodies the human ear ever heard are produced. This echo is sung by Mrs. Feichtel and one of her daughters.

Mrs. Feichtel's program is made up of a great variety of music including solos, duets, trios, quartets, accompanied by their native instrument, the concert zither. They have added to their program quite a few of the popular numbers.

The yodel, the characteristic Swiss song which is native to the Alps, and which will be featured in the program of the Alpine Singers and Yodlers is said to date back to the early days when the forbears of the present Swiss people fought for preservation among their beloved mountains, being assailed on all sides by the Tueton, the Roman and the Gaul. The air of the Alps is clear and capable of sustaining sound for great distance, and at the approach of danger from any quarter the watcher on the mountain top let loose his musical "hel-l-i-o-o-o-a" down the valleys. From point to point it was picked up and carried on by other lookouts, and the forewarned citizens were ready for the foe. From the primitive calls of need have sprung through the years wonderful variations which have become a national music. Accompaniments on the zither add to the effectiveness of these most unusual musical calls.

The famous echo song of the Swiss Alps, as given by Mrs. Otto Feichtel and her daughter, is a most interesting feature. Once heard it is never forgotten. The beautiful native costumes of the singers and players also create a profound impression.

Save The Waste Material.

The war is not ended. America is engaged in a struggle which knows no armistice or peace terms. The struggle for the preservation of our national resources, bitter in the past has been but intensified by the war. The unprecedented demand for raw material, so essential to the needs of our war industries, intensified the conservation and utilization of waste material. This has resulted in a scarcity of the substitutes for virgin raw material and unless our efforts for conservation are continued, the natural resources must be utilized as soon as our industries resume operation at full capacity.

Waste material is the protector of our natural resources! Waste paper, rags, and other waste material can be used in new forms, thereby decreasing the annual consumption of virgin material. The conservation of this material must be continued in order to save our natural wealth for future needs.

The present turn-in of waste material, resulting from the spring collections, is indicative of the influence of the war. The waste dealers report that this is the lightest collection in the history of the trade. The cause of this lies in several factors. The volunteer movement for collection of waste material resulted in a tremendous turn-in during the last two years. Civic bodies, charitable organizations, and women's clubs all contributed to this movement of waste material which brought to the market the accumulations of regions heretofore untouched by the commercial collector.

A second factor lies in our relief and recreational work overseas. Thousands of tons of worn clothing, which in ordinary course of events would have been remanufactured in the waste industry, have been sent overseas to clothe the destitute of Europe. Thousands of tons of books, papers, and magazines, which can be utilized in the manufacture of other grades of paper, were sent to our troops overseas. This material will be discarded in foreign fields, thereby decreasing to an appreciable degree the amount of raw material available for the manufactories of this country.

The third cause lies in the price situation. Waste material prices have been steadily declining since last Fall. The collectors and assemblers have been forced to stay out of the market, which in many instances has resulted in the destruction of waste material in the home or the factory. The consuming mills, meeting a lull in orders, have decreased their orders and the organized commercial field for conservation must await a strengthening note; but when the demand comes, the shortage of material will be felt and prices will increase and will doubtless be maintained for some time.

The most important factor in the situation is the collector. The collector, or junkman, is the foundation of the waste industry. At best, he has made but a precarious livelihood. The larger and constant earnings to be secured in the war industries were responsible for many collectors abandoning the field. Nor has the cessation of hostilities resulted in any marked movement on their part to resume their previous occupation, and it cannot be predicted with any degree of certainty when such a movement will occur.

Shirley Mason Tonight

The Princess offers Shirley Mason tonight in "The Final Close-up" and a Mack Sennett comedy, "The Little Widow." Both pictures are well adapted for a Saturday night program and should please all.

Humor, with tears that tread upon smiles, is the keynote of "Daddy Long Legs", screen version of the famous story by Jean Webster, in which Mary Pickford will be seen in the Princess Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with daily matinees. In this, the first of the productions to be made by her very own company Mary Pickford as "Judy Abbott," easily has the best role of her career. As a poor orphan child, ever helping those about her and making the most of cruel treatment, she finally rises to wonderful heights.

The picture was directed by Marshal Neilan, one of the new wonders of the screen world. Mr. Neilan, is foremost in the new generation of producers and a very young man, but already he has won the name of "The Mark Twain of the Screen", so human and humorous are his touches. The early part of "Daddy Long Legs" is especially full of laugh-winning situations of many sorts.

How the pathetic little ones "carry on" when the hypocritical matron is trying to make them "show off" for the trustees of the institution; how they go on "strike" against prunes; and how Judy Abbott (the sunshiny little orphan played by Miss Pickford) aided by a freckled-face little boy, play tricks upon the matron's daughter, are only a few of the humorous episodes in which the picture abounds.

As well as being a picture which will tug at the heart strings of every parent, "Daddy Long Legs" will make the children and the childless elders laugh, for there are dozens of sweet and funny little children in it, who play the parts of orphans in the great home where the early part of the action is laid.

"The Craving" at The Mystic

Brief, thrilling scenes of the battlefields of France are reproduced in a man's delirium, portrayed in a series of amazing examples of the photographic art, in "The Craving," an unusual five-reel feature which comes to the Mystic theatre today.

The picture, it is announced, is free from the sordid "drink" scenes which make usual features of this kind intolerable, but is remarkable in that the delirium of the principal character is dominated by frivolity, except for the war scenes. Beautiful girls are seen coming from the neck of a bottle into a champagne glass, where they swim around virtually under the man's nostrils.

The plot of the picture details the struggle of two scientists to gain

ACTIVE SERVICE ON RUSSIAN FRONT

Corporal Harvey L. Haynes of Lewisville Spent 6 Months Fighting Bolos

FROZE HIS FEET AND HANDS

One of Few Men in This Part of State Who Were Actively Engaged in Russia

Corp. Harvey L. Haynes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Haynes of Lewisville, has just returned from overseas duty, and was one of the few men in this part of the state, who has the distinction of fighting in Russia. He was in the service fifteen months, and during that time was on the Russian frontier for six months.

He landed in Archangel, Russia, August 24, 1918, and was sent to the Smolley Barracks in one section of Russia. He spent two weeks on garrison duty and was sent to the front for twelve weeks without relief. Before going to the front, the soldiers were issued fur caps and fur coats with large heavy boots. The outfit, he said, seemed to weigh about 100 pounds. The average soldier dressed for work in Russia looked like a camel.

Haynes was a member of a machine gun crew on his first trip to the front. He and fifteen other soldiers were in charge of a Vicker gun. On December 30, 1918, the American troops made a great drive against the Bolos. He was under fire for two days and one night but did not get a scratch to show he had been in the fighting.

The first of January, 1919, found Haynes in Archangel for a two weeks rest. During the time he was at the front, boats had arrived in Archangel from America and France with reinforcements and supplies and he stated that the boats brought a Y. M. C. A. hut and one K. of C. hut. With the arrival of these the soldiers could buy articles which had been a scarcity for several weeks.

Haynes was sent back to the front after a two week's rest and was much better supplied. However, the weather was much colder and during February he stood in the trenches with his feet and fingers frozen. This did not bother him much because the weather did not change. When he entered Russia the weather was as cold as it gets here during the winter and the mercury did not change many degrees during his entire stay in that northern country.

In discussion of Archangel and its inhabitants he said that it was thinly populated, having only a few houses. He expressed it as being a wide place in the Divina river. Tug boats have to pull the large steamships up to the docks as the river is very shallow, he said.

The Bolsheviks are dirty and shaggy, having the appearance of bears, and live in miserable places. They look like the American gypsies, dress slovenly and eat whatever they can get. He said that they did not have very much to eat except black tea and hard bread. Money is plentiful but useless as there is nothing to buy. A Russian would give anything, he declared, for a package of cigarettes.

The male population around Archangel is made up of old men and boys. All the young men are in the army fighting the Bolos. If the Bolsheviks captured a city they would make the old men work or else take them out and shoot like rabbits.

The soldiers were issued rations of corn meal and hard tack. They would take this and trade it to the Russian peasants for potatoes and fish. Potatoes is the only eatable raised in that section of the country. A few patches of oats can be seen now and then over the flat country land. Haynes said that he had killed several rabbits while on the front for a change of food. Crows were also killed and eaten by the soldiers in time of hunger.

Haynes sailed from Russia on June 2 for France. He landed in France and stayed there twelve days, being declothed and issued other clothing and sailed from France on June 24, on the U. S. S. Von Steuben. On this ship, he spoke of eating his first good, hearty meal since leaving Camp Merritt, N. Y., on his road to Russia. He landed in New York city June 30, sent to Camp Merritt and thence to Camp Sherman where he was discharged.

He said that the army officials in Russia were very strict and he had several souvenirs which he planned to bring home but they were confiscated before boarding the return ship. While buying a new pair of shoes in Chillicothe, O., a lady wanted his old hob nail shoes as a souvenir.

The only other Henry county boy known to be in Russia, was Fred Bunker of Lewisville, Ind. Haynes started with him, transferred to different camps and went to Russia with Bunker, but did not see him for two months after entering Russia. Bunker landed in New York city Monday.

URGES LEGISLATION TO CURB THE PACKERS

Federal Trade Commission Recommends Passage of Laws For Government to License Them

TENDENCY TO DICTATE SEEN

(By United Press.)

Washington, July 12.—The federal trade commission whose report charged that the Big Five packers were seeking complete monopoly of the nation's food production, today urged passage of senate bills now pending to curb them.

The measures pending now are the Kenyon bill which seeks to put the packers under strict government licenses and the Kendrick bill which is more moderate.

"I believe it is a matter of time unless the present tendency is stopped, the Big Five packers will absolutely dictate to the people of this country what they shall eat and what they shall pay," said Senator Capper, of Kansas, after reading the commission's report.

Garden Fashions Change Since War

By MARGARET ROHE
(Written for United Press.)

Come into the garden, Maud,
In a cretonne dress so gay
And a cretonne hat and a cretonne mat

To kneel on as you may.
But if you haven't all these things
Believe me when I say,
Keep out of the garden Maud
You'd better stay way.

New York, July 12—My, My, how garden fashions have changed, not only since the days of Eve but just since the war! Only last summer farmerettes in trouserettes sowed and hoed in these severest, most efficient and practical of garden uniforms. This summer fluffy ruffles and flowery fabrics are absolutely essential to the complete gardeness' peace of mind and garden garb success.

One particular new model garden garment is such a fetching affair that any gardeness female immediately starts planting something, if its only in a window box, so she can qualify to don one.

Made up of a charmingly patterned cretonne of either pink or blue stripes on a cream ground with pink rosebud nosegays scattered hither and yon this delectable garden dress has short above-the-elbow sleeves edged with a cuff of ruffled white organdie. The front of the skirt is adorned with a simulated round apron, ruffle edged, that ties in the back with a perky butterfly how of the organdie and a ruffled surplice of the same sheer material furnishes the snug fitting bodice and is fastened with a little love knot of narrow black velvet ribbon in front. A wide brimmed floppy hat of cretonne with a big bow and strings to tie under the chin of the organdie tops off this practical little workaday garden frock.

It is pretty safe to predict that the garden of the gardeness thus affured would be given over to bleeding hearts rather than cabbages.

Another quaint garden get-up consists of a flowered chintz all-over apron, bound around the neck, armholes sash and big patch pockets with a half inch band of contrasting one-toned material. An idealized sunbonnet of the chintz similarly bound completes the set.

These garden aprons are especially attractive for work in the kitchen garden. Some people think a kitchen garden is a plot of ground where all eligible vegetarian edibles are raised, but Mabel, the flat dweller, knows better. Her definition of a really, truly kitchen garden is a green painted, earth filled box in the kitchen window where flourisheth chives for salad, parsley for the garnishing of delicatessen cold-cuts, and mint for the juleps while the private stock lasts and after that an ice tea finish. Of course, the idealized sunbonnet is not indispensable for this kitchen gardening.

The cunning hand painted tin watering pots in pastel tints, abloom with flowers even more radiant than the garden grows, the Japanese garden shears, the handy new kneeling pads of Japanese braided straw to keep a fair weeder's dimpled knees from a too intimate contact with the damp and garden mould and artistic flat baskets enameled or stained in lovely shades to swing from the lady-of-the-garden's rounded arm, and hold the garnered clippings and snippings of the garden's choicest treasures are just a few of the attractive first aids that make gardening what it is today.

But when you consider the lillies, how they grow, the peas and beans in a row, and then think of the elaborate costumes required for the fair gardeners who make the lillies, peas and beans do thus and so, it certainly seems to take a bit of sewing to do a bit of sowing.

The Throat of the Cheney

Where It Gathers Tones Like a Living Voice

THE art of tone reproduction has reached new heights in this remarkable invention of Forest Cheney, embodied only in Cheney Phonographs.

Just as sounds are gathered and controlled in a living throat, so sound vibrations are controlled in the acoustical throat of the Cheney.

The CHENEY PHONOGRAPH

This exclusive Cheney invention keeps every instrument in an orchestra record in proper balance—tones are reflected perfectly without possibility of distortion.

No other phonograph can duplicate the serene purity or the richness of Cheney tones—the Cheney method is covered by basic patents.

Cheney period cabinets, following the finest traditions of Old English furniture design, harmonize in every environment.

FRANKLIN AS W. S. S. SALESMAN.

Harry C. Stutz, the great auto maker, says: "Ben Franklin, philosopher-statesman, probably gave more sage advice to the people on a multitude of subjects than any other man in our history. But the one he especially sought to impress upon 'Young America' was the virtue of thrift. Were he living now, he would sell more War-Savings stamps than any other salesman we could enlist."

"This form of investment appeals to laborer, to youth and to all of moderate means. It is an opportunity for a profitable investment with the best security on the globe, and will be a great demonstrator of the possibilities of saving. Thrift stamps will dig gold for you while you rest and sleep as well as when you work."

PICKING UP THAT PIN.

A story told of E. H. Harriman, who died leaving an estate of $75,000,000, credits him with one day picking up a small steel letter clip dropped on the floor by a careless employee.

"I'd like to have as my annual income," said Mr. Harriman, "the value of material thrown away every year by indifferent workers in the offices and factories of America. In a few years I'd be the richest man in the world."

not responsible for the law, and that it was to be enforced as a state law,—that the city administration did not want to work a hardship on anyone, and was willing to give all an equal chance.

The mayor also said that traffic laws were made to protect the motorist, and that they should co-operate with the state officials in seeing that laws which are meant for protection of property and life, be enforced. Mayor Irvin expressed himself this morning as being greatly satisfied with the way in which people had complied with the new law, and said that he saw very few violators, though he really expected to see many.

The police will continue to knob the violators and the mayor is expected to be kept busy for several mornings. It is the intention to impress upon the autoists the necessity of the tail light, and for a few more days the first offense will be overlooked. He cautioned all of the persons before him this morning, not to make a second trip, or a fine would be imposed.

Some of the persons said this morning that the light was burning, but went out; others simply forgot, and one even went as far as cleaning it all up yesterday, putting in a new wick, filling with oil, and when it got dark, forgot all about having a tail light.

Mayor Irvin told the offenders this morning that the impression among a lot of people here was that the city administration was going too far in enforcing the laws. He said that cities around here did not give a warning, and fined them on the first offense. The law does not require a warning, and everyone is supposed to be familiar with state laws. In Connersville and Shelbyville people are appearing daily and are being fined for the same offense, for which they are allowing a second offense to convict them here. In Indianapolis a raid is being made tonight, and yesterday there were more than a score fined.

R. F. Scudder, who has been ill at his home in West Second street, is reported as getting along as good as could be expected, and his recovery is looked for in a few days.

RUSSIANS ARE BEING EDUCATED

Bolsheviks Have Established Schools Similar to Elementary Schools Here

ARE BEING TRIED IN CITIES

Most Russians Just Learn to Read and Write to Spread the Communist Gospel

By FRANK J. TAYLOR
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

New York, July 12—More people in Soviet Russia are learning to read than are learning to write. The bolsheviks want people to know how to read in order to facilitate the spread of the "communist gospel". A wide-spread definite system of education is being put into effect, not only for youngsters, but also for the elders.

The bolsheviks have established schools that are a wide departure from anything known in Russia heretofore. Many features are not radically different from elementary American schools, which the Russians are copying.

The first feature to go by the board in Russia was religion. Schools were formerly conducted by priests and the curriculum was two-thirds religion and one-third education. This order is reversed now. The bolsheviks are teaching two-thirds socialism and communism and one-third education, the latter being mostly reading and writing. Since many of the children in the cities were starving, the bolshevik government in Moscow and Petrograd is serving a noon meal to the children in school. In many schools clothes are being issued to children whose parents cannot supply them.

The education program, considered by bolshevik leaders to be far in advance of anything in vogue today, practically takes the raising and educating of children out of the hands of the family and places children in the charge of the state.

The Russian code of labor requires that everyone work, women as well as men, except that women have eight weeks before and eight weeks after the birth of a child during which they may stay at home.

At all other times, the mother must leave her babes at public nurseries, where the state will take charge of them and educate them. Already some of these nurseries have been established, and the bolshevik government anticipates bringing up the next generation according to certain "proper" theories.

The bolsheviks are working out their educational system in the cities, and thus far have done nothing for the children of the country. They plan to extend their system to the rural districts later. The peasants have been slower to accept the benevolence of paternal bolsheviks.

In developing their education system the bolsheviks face a tremendous problem, due to the enormous percentage of illiteracy in Russia. Systems of adult night schools have been started in the cities for the grown-ups who do not know how to read and write, or who want to take up special studies. The universities have been opened to everyone, free of charge, and for the most part are attended by older people. The normal student body is mobilized at the front.

Lectures and meetings are the most popular form of education at present. There are meetings by the thousands everywhere. In Soviet Russia there is little else to do but go to a meeting in the evening, aside from a limited number of theatres.

Cafes, to which the Russians used to flock, are closed by order of the soviet government. Restaurants and all other gathering places likewise are no more. In place of these European institutions the bolsheviks offer specially arranged meetings, at which are served lectures on socialism, communism and world-revolution.

The state has on its pay-rolls a staff of speakers, many of whom were formerly street agitators in America and England, who are engaged as educators of the people. To attract people to these meetings the most noted singers, musicians and

What the Franklin Doesn't Need

The kind of service an owner gets from his motor car is visualized by the contents of his garage. Anti-freeze mixtures, scale removers, leak fixers, apparatus of one kind or another, advertise the anxieties that are always with the driver of a water-cooled car—impediments to the full enjoyment of care-free motoring.

With the elimination of all water and delicate water-cooling parts, the air-cooled FRANKLIN CAR also eliminates the many water-cooling troubles. And the knowledge that the car is always ready to run without coddling and without a lot of detailed attention, gives a conception of satisfaction that is new to anyone but a Franklin owner.

WILSON VETOES TWO MEASURES

President Refuses to Sign Agriculture Bill Because of Clause Repealing Daylight Law

VETOES SUNDRY CIVIL BILL

Says it Contains Items Likely to be of Most Serious Consequence —To Be Considered Monday

(By United Press.)

Washington, July 12.—President Wilson today vetoed the agriculture bill because of the clause providing for repeal of the daylight saving law.

The president also returned to the house without signing the sundry civil appropriation bill because he said it contained items "likely to be of the most serious consequences."

"I realize, of course, the great inconvenience which may arise from postponement of this legislation at this time," the president said in notifying the house of his rejection.

"But I feel to withhold my signature because of the clause which provides that 'on and after two o'clock ante-meridian on Sunday October 26, 1919 next, the act to save daylight and to provide standard time for the United States be and the same is hereby repealed.'"

"I believe that repeal of the act referred to would be of extremely grave inconvenience to the country and I feel justified in saying that it would constitute something more than inconvenience. It would involve severe economical loss."

Immediately upon reading of the president's message announcing his veto of the agriculture appropriation bill, the house voted 225 to 77 to consider the veto next Monday, on motion of Republican Leader Mondell.

The announcement of the veto was greeted by applause by some republicans who voted against the repeal of the daylight saving law.

The house then withheld vote on the president's veto of the sundry civil appropriation bill which carried funds for all government departments, referring it to the appropriation committee.

LOSES LEFT HAND IN BAD ACCIDENT

Walter L. Niles, I. & C. Motorman, Suffers Severe Injury While Working on Gravel Train

HAND AMPUTATED AT WRIST

Walter L. Niles, 335 North Jackson street, a motorman on the I. & C. traction line, met with a painful injury late yesterday afternoon, when his left hand became entangled in some machinery about a dump car, badly mashing it and making amputation at the wrist necessary.

Mr. Niles was a motorman on the gravel train and was working near Five Points, on the Shelbyville division. The exact details of the accident are not known here. He was taken to the Deaconess Hospital in Indianapolis, and at first it was thought that the accident was not serious, but after an examination it was found necessary to remove the entire left hand at the wrist.

Mrs. Niles was notified shortly after the accident, and the traction company told her that she could go to Indianapolis if she wished, as it was not thought serious. She was at the hospital, however, in time to be advised about the seriousness of the accident. Mr. Niles was reported this afternoon, as getting along nicely and will recover.

(By United Press.)

London, July 12.—The British dirigible R-34 was 850 miles out at 7:00 a. m., New York time, the air ministry announced this morning.

Owing to a storm over Scotland, the air ministry sent a wireless to the R-34 informing them to land at Pulham, Norfolk, about 100 miles northeast of London, instead of at East Fortune. The ship is scheduled to reach Pulham 4 a. m., New York time, tomorrow morning. The R-34 reported a reduction in speed owing to a disabled engine.

League Opponents Plan Resolution to Summons President Before Committee Daily

CAN RENDER MORE SERVICE

(By United Press.)

Washington, July 12.—An attempt to prevent President Wilson from making a cross-country tour in behalf of the league of nations by keeping him in daily touch with the meeting of the senate foreign relations committee, is being discussed today by league opponents in congress.

Senator Moses, New Hampshire, a new republican member of the committee, said today he plans to offer a resolution to the senate Monday, inviting President Wilson to attend the sessions of that body beginning at 10 a. m. each day while the peace treaty is being discussed.

"I think the president could more effectively serve his country in this way than by making stump speeches throughout the nation," said Moses.

President Wilson already has expressed a willingness to give any information on the peace treaty to the committee.

It was persistently reported that President Wilson decided to ask Senator Swanson, Virginia, to handle the fight for the league in the senate, displacing Senator Hitchcock, who has been the administration spokesman.

Legislation With This End in View Urged Upon Congress by Federal Trade Commission

SCHEDULE WOULD BE FILED

(By United Press.)

Washington, July 12.—In a special report to congress, the federal trade commission today urged passage of legislation permitting manufacturers to fix and maintain retail prices.

Such a legislation, the commission stated, would promote the efficiency of manufacturing and commercial institutions and center interest on the consuming public.

Under the legislation recommended by the commission, manufacturers designated to fix and maintain resale prices, would file a schedule with agents to be designated by congress, describing all articles on sale and the price schedule to be maintained.

IS CERTAIN ONE OF FORDS IS GARTIN'S

Engine Number on One of Cars in Possession of 3 Jeffrey Brothers Evidently Changed.

LICENSE PLATE STOLEN HERE

Effort Will be Made to Apprehend Jeffrey Brothers in Tennessee Once More

The letters which Sheriff Luke McMenaway of Lebanon, Tenn., wrote to Chief Seward, regarding the three Jeffrey brothers, was received late yesterday afternoon, and said that the three brothers, Milton, George and Elmer were arrested on suspicion, as they did not seem to have the appearance of owning automobiles. The arrest was made at Watertown, a few miles from the county seat of Lebanon.

According to the letter, the telegram which Chief Seward sent in reply to the announcement of their arrest, was delayed, and for lack of evidence the officials allowed them to go.

The engine numbers had been tampered with and it is certain that one of the Fords belong to John Gartin as the figures 1 had been changed to 4s. The license plate carried on this machine happened to be those which were taken from the Bill Young machine a few weeks ago. The other Ford however does probably not belong here, as the engine number was too far wrong, and could not have been changed by the Jeffreys. The license plate on this machine was 23757 and an effort is being made to find the owner of these numbers.

The letter also stated that these could in all probability be caught, as they intended to go to Greenville, Tenn., and Chief Seward has wired this placed to be on the look out for them and arrest them. The sheriff at Lebanon will also assist in their capture.

The police are sure that both cars were stolen by them, and by having Bill Young's license number, makes the evidence more complete. Two of the Jeffrey brothers were in service, and had their discharge papers with them which disclosed their identity.

CHANGE MATERIAL TO BE USED ON HIGHWAY

FOR THE T. L. BEHER ROAD

The county commissioners were in session this afternoon, the main purpose being to see about the changing of the material to be used in the construction of the T. L. Beher road. The contract was let some time ago to the Ohio Construction Company and subletted to Charles E. Reddington, and was to have been made a waterbound rock surface road. Now the contractors are unable to buy the glutrin which binds the crushed rock, and are asking for the specifications to be changed.

In all probability the commissioners will change the material from rock to gravel, and have the road put through as soon as possible.

RUSHVILLE MEN PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Bonds For Chester Taylor and Sylvia Miller Are Fixed at $1,500 Each at Shelbyville

PLEA SURPRISES OFFICIALS

Previously Admit Taking Corn and Direct Police to Scene of Theft —Wanted at Greenfield

Chester Taylor and Sylvia Miller, the two Rushville men held at Shelbyville on a grand larceny charge in connection with the theft of 1150 pounds of corn which they attempted to sell at an elevator in Shelbyville, were arraigned yesterday before Judge Blair, and to the surprise of the officials both men entered a plea of not guilty. They previously had admitted taking the corn and even directed the police to the bin from which the corn had been taken. The trial of the two men has been set for next Friday, July 18.

The two men were taken back to their cells in the jail, after Judge Blair had placed their bonds at $1,500 each. It was said that they were making an attempt to secure bond, through several of their Rushville friends. Taylor stated that he had employed Donald Smith of this city to defend him, but Mr. Smith was not present yesterday in the court room.

Shelbyville police, yesterday received a communication from Mayor Myers of Greenfield, stating that the city of Greenfield had been on the outlook for Taylor and according to information given by the mayor of Greenfield, Taylor is the same man whom the authorities of Greenfield have wanted for some time on a "bootlegging" charge. There are no charges against Taylor in the Hancock county court, but the mayor of Greenfield stated that there is positive evidence that Taylor is the man wanted there.

Mayor Myers of Greenfield was in communication with Mayor Hoop of Shelbyville and stated that for some time the police of that city have been on the lookout for Taylor, who is believed to have furnished liquor to a barber in Greenfield, who has been operating a "blind tiger." This is substantiated by Taylor's own admission that while prices of whiskey were low in Ohio he bought a large supply and later sold it to an Indianapolis man. Taylor, however denies any connection with sending liquor to Greenfield.

The police at Shelbyville are certain that in the arrest of Taylor and Miller they have made a splendid catch.

Further light on the Greenfield case was given, when yesterday morning, Dr. C. P. Wilson, a veterinary of that city, drove his automobile into Shelbyville at a high rate of speed, with muffler open, and himself in an intoxicated condition. His condition made him talk and when being arraigned before the mayor of Shelbyville, he told some very interesting things about "bootlegging" in his home town.

GERMANY INFORMED LID WILL BE LIFTED

Big Five Sends Note Informing Her Ratification of the Treaty Has Been Accepted

WARSHIPS SENT TO FIUME

(By United Press.)

Paris, July 12.—The council of five began issuing instruction today on the cessations of the blockade against Germany.

A note was forwarded to the Germans, informing them that their ratification of the treaty has been accepted and that the individual allied governments would take steps to lift the blockade.

The council also started consideration of lifting the blockade against Russia.

Italy filed a claim today, asking that she be granted Austrian concessions in Pientsin, China, the peace treaty now providing that the concessions revert to China for international use.

Dispatch of British, French and American warships to Fiume was a surprise, though apparently such a course was decided upon at least two days ago. It was hoped that the presence of these vessels would help to stabilize the situation but the Italians considered their dispatch was wholly a French move.

13 OFFENDERS UP BEFORE THE MAYOR

Violators of Auto Tail Light Law Are Warned They Will be Fined on Second Offense

Mayor Explains City Administration is Not Responsible For Law —To Protect Motorists

"Keep the tail lights burning, For there's a cop that's yearning, Trim the wicks and light the lights 'Till the car is home."

Such was the advice given this morning by Mayor Irvin to the thirteen offenders who were cited last night by the police, to appear before him this morning. All of the persons were found violating the state law, pertaining to tail lights.

Last night was the first time that the law was to be enforced, following a ten-days-of-grace period, in which people were reminded through the press that the law would be enforced. It being the first appearance of the thirteen, the mayor did not fine them, but told them to watch their lights and avoid a second offense.

Of the offenders, all gave their reasons why the light was not burning. Mrs. Herman Tompkins explained that "she went into the picture show in the daylight, and came out in the dark" and Frank C. George stated that he drove out home, intending to stay but a moment, but lay down for a while and fell asleep, awaking after dark. Mr. George was also cited as having his car parked on the wrong side of the street, but was not fined this time.

The thirteen who were caught without proper lights were Wilbur Gray, Walter Reimmeimer, Mrs. Herman Tompkins, Cullen Sexton, James Stiers, Mervin Alexander, Harry Ferather, Frank C. George, L. J. Newhouse of near Clarksburg, Milton Gray, Cecil Major of Milroy and the owners of two other machines who had not appeared yet. All thirteen did not appear, but in some cases a hearing will be given them as soon as possible.

Mayor Irvin, in telling the offenders this morning about the law, stated that the city administration was Continued on Page Eight

YOUNG WIFE SENT TO GOOD SHEPHERDS HOME

Mrs. George Price Will be Taken to Indianapolis Monday—Taylor Held on New Charge

GAVE LIQUOR TO HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Thersa Price, fifteen-years-old wife of George Price, who was arrested a few days ago when she attempted to run away with Alpheus Taylor, age fifty years, was sent to the Good Shepherds home in Indianapolis for an indeterminate period, by Judge Sparks today. She will be taken Monday by Sheriff Jones. The young wife told the court that she would not be sixteen years old until December and that she was married when thirteen years of age.

Taylor, who faces a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, has also been charged with giving liquor to Price in violation of the state prohibition law. His bond is $1,000 in each case and he probably will not be tried before the first week in August when a week's vacation court will be held. Taylor is the father of Chester Taylor who is held at Shelbyville on charge of grand larceny in connection with the theft of 1150 pounds of corn.

INVESTING MADE SAFE FOR THE SMALL Saver

War Savings Stamps Minimizing the Menace of Fraudulent Promotions Which Wipe Out "Rainy Day Funds."

This is the day of the small investor. The war opened the eyes of some 50,000,000 Americans to the benefits of investing in government securities; it minimized to the same extent the menace of fraudulent promotions in which many lives' savings have been sunk.

War Savings stamps are making investing safe for the small saver. "There is nothing more disheartening than to undergo self-denial for years, to save money and then to see the 'rainy day fund' wiped out by the failure of some 'wildcat' scheme," says Robert E. Springsteen, director of the War Savings Organization for Indiana.

"Widows and hard-working men are credulous. They listen to the city promises of 'get-rich-quick' promoters and hand over their savings to salesmen promising impossible profits."

"When the crash comes the savings of years disappear in an instant and there is nothing to do but begin life over again—often at a time when earning capacity has begun to ebb."

Whatever the temptation for "wildcat" speculation in the past, there is no excuse for it now.

Every small investor should realize that a dollar saved while money is the cheapest commodity being offered will purchase twice as much of most any other commodity within four or five years, so that, in addition to the interest that War Savings or other government securities yield, the investor really has earned 100 per cent in the purchasing power of the dollar saved.

Small sums certainly are worth saving. Amounts that seem insignificant soon pile up into figures that are impressive.

A great French banker was once asked the secret of French thrift, and he replied, "Compound interest." Just as constant waste, even in little things, may change one's life from success to failure, so the steady saving of money will eventually bring independence, if not actual wealth.

There are very few persons who cannot, without any inconvenience whatever, lay aside 10 cents a day. Within ten years one's daily savings of this insignificant sum will amount to $365, in addition to $80.36 compound interest, making a total of $445.36 to show for one's saving just 10 cents a day for ten years.

By saving 15 cents a day for ten years, with interest compounded at 4 per cent, one will have the comfortable sum of $603.18; 20 cents a day will net $890.90. Save 50 cents a day for ten years and there is $2,227.75. A dollar a day will make a total of $4,455.74 for the ten-year period.

All these figures are based on the savings being put out at 4 per cent compound interest. War Savings stamps yield a trifle more than 4 per cent.

Mrs. P. S. Boehm, who was operated on last Monday night in Connersville for appendicitis, is getting along very well, and her condition is encouraging to the physicians.

ROMANCE OF A WEEK ENDS ABRUPTLY TODAY

Bettie Hodgen Unable to Answer Questions and Clerk Refuses to Grant License

MAN HERE WITH A TENT SHOW

A romance of a week's duration ended rather abruptly this afternoon in the county clerk's office, when Bettie Hodgen and Thomas Johnson were refused a license to wed.

Johnson came to the city Monday with a show which is located on the old ball diamonds, and Miss Hodgen fell in love at the first sight. Both of the parties are colored.

When applying for a license this afternoon, the girl was unable to answer the questions, and could not answer to her age, occupation, place of birth or race—so County Clerk Moore refused them a license.

MAYOR REGAINS NUMBERS

Auto License Plates are Found in Barn on Dell Miles Farm

Somebody got the mayor's number a few weeks ago, but he recovered it—or, to be strictly correct, it was a dark secret about the recovery of Mayor Irvin's automobile license plates until the story eventually leaked out that they were found in a barn on Dell Miles' farm near Raleigh. The loss of the license plates was discovered a few days after the mayor had attended a barn dance on the Miles farm and it is regarded as likely that someone took them while Mr. Irvin was there. The mayor got a permit to run his car until duplicate plates could be made, but the old ones were recovered before the new ones came.

The matter, however, would have escaped the attention of the authorities had it not been for two officers of the government department of justice who heard him in his remarks, and while he was paying his fine for automobile violations, he told the officers about his friend in Greenfield from whom he could get all the liquor he wanted. Dr. Wilson's fine amounted to $11 and costs for intoxication and $20 and costs for violating the muffler ordinance, and the charge of speeding was discharged.

PROHIBITION TO BRING COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE

Hazel MacKaye Advises Using Buildings as Centers for Drama, Community Sings and Entertainments.

Why not turn the corner saloon into a community playhouse when the law effects the closing of these gathering places, asks Miss Hazel MacKaye, director of the Department of Paganry and Drama of the National Young Women's Christian Association?

"I went over on the West Side of New York one night recently to attend a community drama meeting," Miss MacKaye says in explaining her theory, "and as I was riding along I noticed how many saloons there were—one on every corner and another in the middle of the block, it seemed, all just blazing with lights. Those lights ought not to go out with prohibition. They ought to shine for something worth while to all of the people, and what better than community drama and sings?"

Miss MacKaye feels that the war has given a great impetus to popular interest in drama and that, through pageantry and drama a great deal in the way of Americanization can be effected.

Through the community center, if it be in a district populated largely of one foreign nationality, these people could present pageants of the life in their mother countries, translating them into English, so that Americans and also the younger English speaking members of their household could understand and appreciate their traditions. American art would be greatly enriched thus through the drama of all of the nations whose peoples have settled in this country. On the other hand American ideals, American history and American festivals, even laws such as child labor and minimum wage, could be interpreted to these people by means of pageantry.

"People have been learning not only to work together, but to play together," Miss MacKaye says, "particularly since the war, when the people stood together in drives and large patriotic community entertainments. The opportunity to build up a great community organization is now at hand, and the time is ripe for it. Why not utilize the corner saloon?"

DEPARTMENT ADVISES ON PLUMBING AND CURTAINS

New Bureau Opens in Y. W. C. A. Overseas Office.

A new department of finance has been organized by the Y. W. C. A. for its work in France. Miss Constance Clark of Pasadena, Cal., is the executive. Miss Clark before her recent coming to France was director of the big Y. W. C. A. Hostess House at Camp Lewis, Washington.

All contracts, leases and rentals for new buildings will be handled by Miss Edith Austin of New York City, an experienced architect and builder, who will work through this newly created section.

Plans for remodeling and decorating rooms, clubs and hostess houses taken over by the Y. W. C. A. will be in the hands of Miss Mary Buchanan, an interior decorator, who comes originally from Scotland, but who has been working in France for the American Y. W. C. A. since the beginning of its war work there.

In addition, the department is compiling lists, suggestions and general shopping guides for all the buying of the Association in France, including all kinds of building equipment from crocheted curtains to plumbing supplies.

A cafeteria expert will have a place in the department to act as general advisor on restaurant and cafeteria projects of the Association throughout France.

ALPINE YODLERS UNIQUE COMPANY

Natives of Switzerland, Who Are Coming to Chautauqua, Are Distinctly Different Attraction

TWO CONCERTS ON AUGUST 14

Program is Made up of Great Variety of Music, Including Solos, Duets, Trios, Quartets

Probably the most unique attraction ever at the Rush county chautauqua will be here this year when the Alpine Singers and Yodlers appear at the assembly in two concerts Thursday afternoon and evening, August 14.

Mrs. Otto Feichtel's Alpine Singers who will be in Rushville, are the original company of Alpine yodlers to appear in this country. Mrs. Feichtel and her husband coming to America from Switzerland in 1896, and organizing this company immediately thereafter, since which time the organization has been in constant demand. The organization has had the honor to appear before three American presidents, Cleveland, McKinley and Roosevelt. The program offered for this year consists of solos, duets, trios, quartets and quintets, accompanied by that unique instrument so popular in Switzerland, the zither, folk songs of the Alpine people, including the famous yodels, will be interspersed with modern popular numbers, making up a delightful variety.

The Yodel is a unique musical expression. It has been asked by people what Yodlers are. They are natives of Switzerland who live a simple shepherd life and who have achieved complete mastery of the music of their country as well as the full development of the peculiar Yodel. The main feature of this entertainment is the Echo song which is carried from crag to crag on the wings of the atmosphere. The call floats and re-echoes down the canyon, tempered by distance, and on down until the sweetest melodies the human ear ever heard are produced. This echo is sung by Mrs. Feichtel and one of her daughters.

Mrs. Feichtel's program is made up of a great variety of music including solos, duets, trios, quartets, accompanied by their native instrument, the concert zither. They have added to their program quite a few of the popular numbers.

The yodel, the characteristic Swiss song which is native to the Alps, and which will be featured in the program of the Alpine Singers and Yodlers is said to date back to the early days when the forbears of the present Swiss people fought for preservation among their beloved mountains, being assailed on all sides by the Tueton, the Roman and the Gaul. The air of the Alps is clear and capable of sustaining sound for great distance, and at the approach of danger from any quarter the watcher on the mountain top let loose his musical "hel-l-i-o-o-o" down the valleys. From point to point it was picked up and carried on by other lookouts, and the forewarned citizens were ready for the foe. From the primitive calls of need have sprung through the years wondrous variations which have become a national music. Accompaniments on the zither add to the effectiveness of these most unusual musical calls.

The famous echo song of the Swiss Alps, as given by Mrs. Otto Feichtel and her daughter, is a most interesting feature. Once heard it is never forgotten. The beautiful native costumes of the singers and players also create a profound impression.

Save The Waste Material.

The war is not ended. America is engaged in a struggle which knows no armistice or peace terms. The struggle for the preservation of our national resources, bitter in the past has been but intensified by the war. The unprecedented demand for raw material, so essential to the needs of our war industries, intensified the conservation and utilization of waste material. This has resulted in a scarcity of the substitutes for virgin raw material and unless our efforts for conservation are continued, the natural resources must be utilized as soon as our industries resume operation at full capacity.

Waste material is the protector of our natural resources! Waste paper, rags, and other waste material can be used in new forms, thereby decreasing the annual consumption of virgin material. The conservation of this material must be continued in order to save our natural wealth for future needs.

The present turn-in of waste material, resulting from the spring collections, is indicative of the influence of the war. The waste dealers report that this is the lightest collection in the history of the trade. The cause of this lies in several factors. The volunteer movement for collection of waste material resulted in a tremendous turn-in during the last two years. Civic bodies, charitable organizations, and women's clubs all contributed to this movement of waste material which brought to the market the accumulations of regions heretofore untouched by the commercial collector.

A second factor lies in our relief and recreational work overseas. Thousands of tons of worn clothing, which in ordinary course of events would have been remanufactured in the waste industry, have been sent overseas to clothe the destitute of Europe. Thousands of tons of books, papers, and magazines, which can be utilized in the manufacture of other grades of paper, were sent to our troops overseas. This material will be discarded in foreign fields, thereby decreasing to an appreciable degree the amount of raw material available for the manufacturers of this country.

The third cause lies in the price situation. Waste material prices have been steadily declining since last Fall. The collectors and sorters have been forced to stay out of the market, which in many instances has resulted in the destruction of waste material in the home or the factory. The consuming mills, meeting a lull in orders, have decreased their orders and the organized commercial field for conservation must await a strengthening note; but when the demand comes, the shortage of material will be felt and prices will increase and will doubtless be maintained for some time.

The most important factor in the situation is the collector. The collector, or junkman, is the foundation of the waste industry. At best, he has made but a precarious livelihood. The larger and constant earnings to be secured in the war industries were responsible for many collectors abandoning the field. Nor has the cessation of hostilities resulted in any marked movement on their part to resume their previous occupation, and it cannot be predicted with any degree of certainty when such a movement will occur.

Amusements

Shirley Mason Tonight

The Princess offers Shirley Mason tonight in "The Final Close-up" and a Mack Sennett comedy, "The Little Widow." Both pictures are well adapted for a Saturday night program and should please all.

Humor, with tears that tread upon smiles, is the keynote of "Daddy Long Legs", screen version of the famous story by Jenn Webster, in which Mary Pickford will be seen in the Princess Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with daily matinees. In this, the first of the productions to be made by her very own company, Mary Pickford as "Judy Abbott", easily has the best role of her career. As a poor orphan child, ever helping those about her and making the most of cruel treatment, she finally rises to wonderful heights.

The picture was directed by Marshal Neilan, one of the new wonders of the screen world. Mr. Neilan, is foremost in the new generation of producers and a very young man, but already he has won the name of "The Mark Twain of the Screen", so human and humorous are his touches. The early part of "Daddy Long Legs" is especially full of laugh-winning situations of many sorts.

How the pathetic little ones "carry on" when the hypocritical matron is trying to make them "show off" for the trustees of the institution; how they go on "strike" against prunes; and how Judy Abbott (the sunshiny little orphan played by Miss Pickford) aided by a freckle-faced little boy, play tricks upon the matron's daughter, are only a few of the humorous episodes in which the picture abounds.

As well as being a picture which will tug at the heart strings of every parent, "Daddy Long Legs" will make the children and the childless elders laugh, for there are dozens of sweet and funny little children in it, who play the parts of orphans in the great home where the early part of the action is laid.

"The Craving" at The Mystic

Brief, thrilling scenes of the battlefields of France are reproduced in a man's delirium, portrayed in a series of amazing examples of the photographic art, in "The Craving," an unusual five-reel feature which comes to the Mystic theatre today.

The picture, it is announced, is free from the sordid "drink" scenes which make usual features of this kind intolerable, but is remarkable in that the delirium of the principal character is dominated by frivolity, except for the war scenes. Beautiful girls are seen coming from the neck of a bottle into a champagne glass, where they swim around finally under the man's nostrils.

The plot of the picture details the struggle of two soldiers who are

ACTIVE SERVICE ON RUSSIAN FRONT

Corporal Harvey L. Haynes of Lewisville Spent 6 Months Fighting Bolos

FROZE HIS FEET AND HANDS

One of Few Men in This Part of State Who Were Actively Engaged in Russia

Corp. Harvey L. Haynes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Haynes of Lewisville, has just returned from overseas duty, and was one of the few men in this part of the state, who has the distinction of fighting in Russia. He was in the service fifteen months, and during that time was on the Russian frontier for six months.

He landed in Archangel, Russia, August 24, 1918, and was sent to the Smolley Barracks in one section of Russia. He spent two weeks on garrison duty and was sent to the front for twelve weeks without relief. Before going to the front, the soldiers were issued fur caps and fur coats with large heavy boots. The outfit, he said, seemed to weigh about 100 pounds. The average soldier dressed for work in Russia looked like a camel.

Haynes was a member of a machine gun crew on his first trip to the front. He and fifteen other soldiers were in charge of a Vicker gun. On December 30, 1918, the American troops made a great drive against the Bolos. He was under fire for two days and one night but did not get a scratch to show he had been in the fighting.

The first of January, 1919, found Haynes in Archangel for a two weeks rest. During the time he was at the front, boats had arrived in Archangel from America and France with reinforcements and supplies and he stated that the boats brought a Y. M. C. A. hut and one K. of C. hut. With the arrival of these the soldiers could buy articles which had been a scarcity for several weeks.

Haynes was sent back to the front after a two week's rest and was much better supplied. However, the weather was much colder and during February he stood in the trenches with his feet and fingers frozen. This did not bother him much because the weather did not change. When he entered Russia the weather was as cold as it gets here during the winter and the mercury did not change many degrees during his entire stay in that northern country.

In discussion of Archangel and its inhabitants he said that it was thinly populated, having only a few houses. He expressed it as being a wide place in the Divina river. Tug boats have to pull the large steamships up to the docks as the river is very shallow, he said.

The Bolsheviks are dirty and shaggy, having the appearance of bears, and live in miserable places. They look like the American gypsies, dress slovenly and eat whatever they can get. He said that they did not have very much to eat except black tea and hard bread. Money is plentiful but useless as there is nothing to buy. A Russian would give anything, he declared, for a package of cigarettes.

The male population around Archangel is made up of old men and boys. All the young men are in the army fighting the Bolos. If the Bolsheviks captured a city they would make the old men work or else take them out and shoot like rabbits.

The soldiers were issued rations of corn meal and hard tack. They would take this and trade it to the Russian peasants for potatoes and fish. Potatoes is the only eatable raised in that section of the country. A few patches of oats can be seen now and then over the flat country land. Haynes said that he had killed several rabbits while on the front for a change of food. Crows were also killed and eaten by the soldiers in time of hunger.

Haynes sailed from Russia on June 2 for France. He landed in France and stayed there twelve days, being declothed and issued other clothing and sailed from France on June 24, on the U. S. S. Von Steuben. On this ship, he spoke of eating his first good, hearty meal since leaving Camp Merritt, N. Y., on his road to Russia. He landed in New York city June 30, sent to Camp Merritt and thence to Camp Sherman where he was discharged.

He said that the army officials in Russia were very strict and he had several souvenirs which he planned to bring home but they were confiscated before boarding the return ship. While buying a new pair of shoes in Chillicothe, O., a lady wanted his old hob nail shoes as a souvenir.

The only other Henry county boy known to be in Russia, was Fred Bunker of Lewisville, Ind. Haynes started with him, transferred to different camps and went to Russia with Bunker, but did not see him for two months after entering Russia. Bunker landed in New York city Monday.

URGES LEGISLATION TO CURB THE PACKERS

Federal Trade Commission Recommends Passage of Laws For Government to License Them

TENDENCY TO DICTATE SEEN

(By United Press.)

Washington, July 12—The federal trade commission whose report charged that the Big Five packers were seeking complete monopoly of the nation's food production, today urged passage of senate bills, now pending to curb them.

The measures pending now are the Kenyon bill which seeks to put the packers under strict government licenses and the Kendrick bill which is more moderate.

"I believe it is a matter of time when the present tendency is stopped," the Big Five packers will undoubtedly dictate to the people of this country what they shall eat and what they shall pay," said Senator Kendrick of Kansas, while testifying before the committee.

Garden Fashions Change Since War

By MARGARET ROHE
(Written for United Press.)

Come into the garden, Maud,
In a cretonne dress so gay
And a cretonne hat and a cretonne mut

To kneel on as you may.
But if you haven't all these things
Believe me when I say,
Keep out of the garden Maud
You'd better stay away.

New York, July 12—My, My, how garden fashions have changed, not only since the days of Eve but just since the war! Only last summer farmerettes in trouserettes sowed and hoed in these severest, most efficient and practical of garden uniforms. This summer fluffy ruffles and flowery fabrics are absolutely essential to the complete gardeness, peace of mind and garden garb success.

One particular new model garden garment is such a fetching affair that any gardeness female immediately starts planting something, if its only in a window box, so she can qualify to don one.

Made up of a charmingly patterned cretonne of either pink or blue stripes on a cream ground with pink rosebud nosegays scattered hither and yon this delectable garden dress has short above-the-elbow sleeves edged with a cuff of ruffled white organdie. The front of the skirt is adorned with a simulated round apron, ruffle edged, that ties in the back with a perky butterfly bow of the organdie and a fulfilled surplice of the same sheer material furnishes the snug fitting bodice and is fastened with a little love knot of narrow black velvet ribbon in front. A wide brimmed floppy hat of cretonne with a big bow and strings to tie under the chin of the organdie tops off this practical little workaday garden frock.

It is pretty safe to predict that the garden of the gardeness thus affured would be given over to bleeding hearts rather than cabbages.

Another quaint garden get-up consists of a flowered chintz all-over apron, bound around the neck, armholes sash and big patch pockets with a half inch band of contrasting one-toned material. An idealized sunbonnet of the chintz similarly bound completes the set.

These garden aprons are especially attractive for work in the kitchen garden. Some people think a kitchen garden is a plot of ground where all eligible vegetarian edibles are raised, but Mabel, the flat dweller, knows better. Her definition of a really, truly kitchen garden is a green painted, earth filled box in the kitchen window where flourisheth chives for salad, parsley for the garnishing of delicate cold-cuts, and mint for the juleps while the private stock lasts and after that an ice tea finish. Of course, the idealized sunbonnet is not indispensable for this kitchen gardening.

The cunning hand painted tin watering pots in pastel tints, abloom with flowers even more radiant than the garden grows, the Japanese garden shears, the handy new kneeling pads of Japanese braided straw to keep a fair weeder's dimpled knees from a too intimate contact with the damp and garden mould and artistic flat baskets enameled or stained in lovely shades to swing from the lady-of-the-garden's rounded arm, and hold the garnered clippings and snippings of the garden's choicest treasures are just a few of the attractive first aids that make gardening what it is today.

But when you consider the lillies, how they grow, the peas and beans in a row, and then think of the elaborate costumes required for the fair gardeners who make the lillies, peas and beans do thus and so, it certainly seems to take a bit of sewing to do a bit of sowing.

Everything from locket to 6 foot circuit photos. Wallace, Photographer. 10112

VISCOUNTESS CURZON

Viscountess Curzon is said to be the most beautiful woman of England's nobility. She is the daughter of Sir Montague Curzon, who is not related to her husband, Viscount Curzon.

FRANKLIN AS W. S. S. SALESMAN.

Harry C. Stutz, the great auto maker, says:

"Ben Franklin, philosopher-statesman, probably gave more sage advice to the people on a multitude of subjects than any other man in our history. But the one he especially sought to impress upon 'Young America' was the virtue of thrift. Were he living now, he would sell more War-Savings stamps than any other salesman we could enlist.

"This form of investment appeals to laborer, to youth and to all of moderate means. It is an opportunity for a profitable investment with the best security on the globe, and will be a great demonstrator of the possibilities of saving. Thrift stamps will dig gold for you while you rest and sleep as well as when you work."

PICKING UP THAT PIN.

A story told of H. H. Harriman, who died leaving an estate of $75,000,000, credits him with one day picking up a small steel letter clip dropped on the floor by a careless employee.

"I'd like to have as my annual income," said Mr. Harriman, "the value of material thrown away every year by indifferent workers in the offices and factories of America. In a few years I'd be the richest man in the world."

not responsible for the law, and that it was to be enforced as a state law, —that the city administration did not want to work a hardship on anyone, and was willing to give all an equal chance.

The mayor also said that traffic laws were made to protect the motorist, and that they should co-operate with the state officials in seeing that laws which are meant for protection of property and life, be enforced. Mayor Irvin expressed himself this morning as being greatly satisfied with the way in which people had complied with the new law, and said that he saw very few violators, though he really expected to see many.

The police will continue to knob the violators and the mayor is expected to be kept busy for several mornings. It is the intention to impress upon the autoists the necessity of the tail light, and for a few more days the first offense will be overlooked. He cautioned all of the persons before him this morning, not to make a second trip, or a fine would be imposed.

Some of the persons said this morning that the light was burning, but went out; others simply forgot, and one even went as far as cleaning it all up yesterday, putting in a new wick, filling with oil, and when it got dark, forgot all about having a tail light.

Mayor Irvin told the offenders this morning that the impression among a lot of people here was that the city administration was going too far in enforcing the laws. He said that cities around here did not give a warning, and fined them on the first offense. The law does not require a warning, and everyone is supposed to be familiar with state laws. In Connersville and Shelbyville people are appearing daily and are being fined for the same offense, for which they are allowing a second offense to convict them here. In Indianapolis a raid is being made nightly, and yesterday there were more than a score fined.

R. F. Scudder, who has been ill at his home in West Second street, is reported as getting along as good as could be expected, and his recovery is looked for in a few days.

RUSSIANS ARE BEING EDUCATED

Bolsheviks Have Established Schools Similar to Elementary Schools Here

ARE BEING TRIED IN CITIES

Most Russians Just Learn to Read and Write to Spread the Communist Gospel

By FRANK J. TAYLOR
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

New York, July 12—More people in Soviet Russia are learning to read than are learning to write. The bolsheviks want people to know how to read in order to facilitate the spread of the "communist gospel". A wide-spread definite system of education is being put into effect, not only for youngsters, but also for the elders.

The bolsheviks have established schools that are a wide departure from anything known in Russia heretofore. Many features are not radically different from elementary American schools, which the Russians are copying.

The first feature to go by the board in Russia was religion. Schools were formerly conducted by priests and the curriculum was two-thirds religion and one-third education. This order is reversed now. The bolsheviks are teaching two-thirds socialism and communism and one-third education, the latter being mostly reading and writing. Since many of the children in the cities were starving, the bolshevik government in Moscow and Petrograd is serving a noon meal to the children in school. In many schools clothes are being issued to children whose parents cannot supply them.

The education program, considered by bolshevik leaders to be far in advance of anything in vogue today, practically takes the raising and educating of children out of the hands of the family and places children in the charge of the state.

The Russian code of labor requires that everyone work, women as well as men, except that women have eight weeks before and eight weeks after the birth of a child during which they may stay at home.

At all other times, the mother must leave her babes at public nurseries, where the state will take charge of them and educate them. Already some of these nurseries have been established, and the bolshevik government anticipates bringing up the next generation according to certain "proper" theories.

The bolsheviks are working out their educational system in the cities, and thus far have done nothing for the children of the country. They plan to extend their system to the rural districts later. The peasants have been slower to accept the benevolences of paternal bolsheviks.

In developing their education system the bolsheviks face a tremendous problem, due to the enormous percentage of illiteracy in Russia. Systems of adult night schools have been started in the cities for the grown-ups who do not know how to read and write, or who want to take up special studies. The universities have been opened to everyone, free of charge, and for the most part are attended by older people. The normal student body is mobilized at the front.

Lectures and meetings are the most popular form of education at present. There are meetings by the thousands everywhere. In Soviet Russia there is little else to do but go to a meeting in the evening, aside from a limited number of theatres.

Cafes, to which the Russians used to flock, are closed by order of the soviet government. Restaurants and all other gathering places likewise are no more. In place of these European institutions the bolsheviks offer specially arranged meetings, at which are served lectures on socialism, communism and world-revolution.

The state has on its pay-rolls a staff of speakers, many of whom were formerly street agitators in America and England, who are engaged to attract the people. To attract people to these meetings the state has a special force of men, who are paid to go to the meetings and help to make them a success.

We know the History of the Waist you wear

The waist you wear may be a modest garment of cotton — or again a camisole of cobwebby silk.

But be your waist a commoner or an aristocrat, we can give you its pedigree—can tell you the materials of which it is made, whence they came and the manner in which they are spun, woven and tailored to make the garment you wear.

We are able to do this because we make a special study of textiles and fabrics. We are enabled thus to give every variety of garment that comes to us exactly the treatment that will cleanse it best. Is this not an improvement upon the methods of the old-time cleaners?

You may visit us and watch our workers while they sort the articles, so that each can be given the special cleansing it needs most.

Our cleansing is done by the latest improvements and may be rightly termed as "Odorlessly done."

Phone us today and have us call for your garments.

dancers give performances after the lectures. The press and the theatre is used to spread bolshevik education. Public places and clubs have been confiscated for the meeting places. In Moscow the nobles' club has been turned into a labor temple, and is the principal meeting place. The public has opportunity to attend the theatre and opera on a partly communistic and partly capitalist basis. All theatres are confiscated by the state, and their former owners are gone. For the most part the stage stars remain the same, monthly bonuses up to three thousand rubles per month being paid them to encourage them to continue their roles.

The opera and ballet in Moscow is as well staged as ever, and is beautiful beyond comparison with war time presentations in other capitals of Europe. The audience is the most interesting development. Amongst splendidly dressed people and beautiful women, obviously of the former bourgeoisie classes, people who have been able to make their money last through the revolution, one sees unwashed, unshaved, rough workmen, dressed in dirty work clothes. They are recipients of tickets distributed free of charge by the government among factory workers and government employees. These sit without removing their caps, apparently enjoying the theater for the first time in their lives.

Ordinary people must buy tickets—only the privileged workman or government employee is a guest—at the box or from scalpers, the same as in capitalistic lands.

What the Franklin Doesn't Need

The kind of service an owner gets from his motor car is visualized by the contents of his garage. Anti-freeze mixtures, scale removers, leak fixers, apparatus of one kind or another, advertise the anxieties that are always with the driver of a water-cooled car—impediments to the full enjoyment of care-free motoring.

With the elimination of all water and delicate water-cooling parts, the air-cooled FRANKLIN CAR also eliminates the many water-cooling troubles. And the knowledge that the car is always ready to run without coddling and without a lot of detailed attention, gives a conception of satisfaction that is new to anyone but a Franklin owner.
